2016 Barcelona (July 10-15, Albert Guillen i Fabregas, Alfonso Martinez, Sergio Verdu)

- Waiting for budget closure
- Estimated surplus 34KEuro
- Final report ready
- Newsletter article published

2017 Aachen (June 25-June 30, Gerhard Kramer, Rudolf Mathar)

- Budget approved
- Submission deadline extended to Feb 5, 2017
2018 Vail (June 17-22, Mahesh Varanasi, Ruediger Urbanke)

- Budget approved

2019 Paris (July 7-14, Pablo Piantanida, Al Hero)

- Budget approved

2020 Los Angeles (July, Babak Hassibi, Giuseppe Caire)

- Nothing to report

2021 Melbourne (July 11-16, Emanuele Viterbo, Parastoo Sadeghi)

- Nothing to report

Future ISITs: 2022 and beyond -- Normally, the earliest the IT Society would commit to an organizer of an ISIT is four years in advance, although the conference committee does try to track interest from organizers for any future ISIT. Anyone with interest in organizing a future meeting or suggestions should contact the conference committee.

Expressions of Interest for ISIT 2022 will be considered in 2018. It is highly recommended that new ISIT organizer’s team organize an ITW workshop to warm up.

Some past expression of interest to be followed up

- Helsinki (Marcus Greferath, Camilla Hollanti, Vitaly Skachek, Olav Tirkkonen)
- Halifax (Dmitry Trukhachev, Stark Draper and Christian Schlegel, Senior Advisor: Frank Kschischang)
- Stockholm (Lars Rasmussen)

2016 ITW Cambridge, UK (Sept 12-14, Deniz Gunduz, David MacKay, Jossy Sayir)

A 6% surplus is expected. Budget almost closed.

2017 ITW Kaohsiung, Taiwan (Nov 5-8, Po-Ning Chen, Gerhard Kramer, Chih-Peng)

- Venue is set
- Plenary speakers are all set
- Invited section organizers are all set
- Website, edas, payments all set
- Worked on the industry funding, but no commitment yet.

Future ITWs -- Interest from potential organizers: Proposals for ITWs are usually approved 18 to 24 months before the workshop.
Technically co-sponsored workshops

The current process to approve the TCS is rather complicated for the organizers and involves unnecessary delays to reach the final BoG approval. It also takes up some precious time to have many votes at each BoG meeting.

- [For discussion]

The conference committee proposes to:

- Request BoG vote only for new conferences seeking TCS or when there is not agreement within the Conference committee
- In all other cases where the conferences have obtained the TCS from the Society in the previous editions, the TCS can be approved directly by the Conference committee after verifying the conference has maintained its scope.

Systems, Communications and Coding (SCC 2017), to be held February 6-9, 2017 in Hamburg, Germany (Rainer Grünheid, Hamburg University of Technology, Institute of Communications)

- To be voted by BoG

International Symposium on Information Theory and its Applications (ISITA2018), to be held October 28-31, 2018 in Singapore, Grand Copthorne Waterfront (Kazushi Mimura)

- To be voted by BoG

Change in IEEE policy regarding TCS: Starting from December 31, 2015, IEEE is charging technically co-sponsored conferences (TCS) $1000 per conference and $15 per paper.
